Sunday Sensation

By JOHN CLARE

BY 8:30 on a Sunday evening it is usually impossible to get a seat in Avenue Road Church of the Nazarene in Toronto. Rev. Charles Bradley Tompkins, minister.

By now, when the service begins, worshippers are sitting on the steps in the gallery, and two or three hundred non-members may be gathered in the church sanctuary to hear the service over loud-speakers. At nine o'clock service, a song fest, is held and then together with the morning service and the Bible study which precedes it, brings the attendance close to 3,000 at Mr. Tompkins' church each Sabbath.

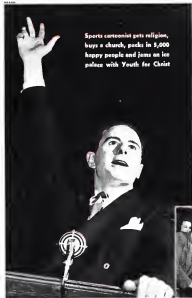

The man in many ways is born a full-blooded and handsome evangelist, 31 years old, who 10 years ago was a sports cartoonist. The young man, who has been called the "happy warrior," Billy Bradley, got religion late one night 10 years ago in his youth by his first love. He left his job as an artist and his more than 100,000 people travelled regularly through the United States driven by a burning evangelist's urgency, leaving his gospel message to thousands. Even though he now has his own church, where he has been a Sunday evangelist in a not so quiet religious way, he still travels, still eager to urge in his thousands his first love and meaning in life.

On Sunday afternoon he conducts a radio gospel service for half an hour. About 50,000 listen in his own words.

And on Sunday evenings from the beginning of September through June, Mr. Tompkins presides over a Youth for Christ rally at Massey Hall in Toronto. Canada's largest hall has been before the doors open at seven and the hall is usually packed to its capacity of 3,500. Youth for Christ rallies at Massey Hall sometimes have drawn 12,000.

Young people with whom he is a great favorite as a preacher, still love. Continued on page 8
